On 1/10/67 source advised that he had not seen JOSEPH AMABILE recently until that morning when he saw AMABILE driving West on Lake Street in the Northlake area. AMABILE now has 1967 Illinois license 559 508 on his car.

Source stated that AMABILE continues to frequent the Club 20. [redacted] the El Marrocco [redacted] the Club 20. Source is certain that AMABILE [redacted] the Club 20. [redacted] is a decent man but a number of years ago got in trouble with [redacted] and AMABILE gave him help and has more or less [redacted] ever since. [redacted] Club 20 [redacted] on 12nd and North. Stone Park, and a [redacted] named [redacted] who is of [redacted] (This is possibly [redacted])

TONY BATTAGLIA, SAM's brother still frequents the Club 20 and [redacted] told source she knew him from the Cicero days. She indicated he was a big man in Cicero at one time. TONY is a frequent visitor to the Club 20 and apparently a good friend of AMABILE's.

b7C

Source advised that he had heard from [redacted] and others at the Club 20 that AMABILE had [redacted]

b6
b7D

Source advised that LOUIS "The Mooch" EBOLINI is now the acting outfit chieftan in Stone Park, Illinois and is apparently acting in behalf of and for some higher placed hoodlum. EBOLI also has all the pinball, pool table, and cigarette machines in Joe's Place, the former Halfway House, in Northlake. EBOLI controls the chief of police in Stone Park who was handpicked by the "outfit". EBOLI was arrested about 6 months ago and is charged in court at Oak Park, Illinois for having a payoff pinball machine next door to the Stone Park PD.

AMABILE would not allow EBOLI to put his pool tables in the El Marrocco and EBOLI definitely represents another outfit faction.

Source advised he has not seen SAM BATTAGLIA going to the farm byway of Lake Street lately and feels the newspaper accounts of his farm and visitors there have made him very gunshy lately.

How the Syndicate Runs Pinball Racket

By PHILIP CAPUTO

The removal of pinball machines from Lyons should mean a loosening of the crime syndicate grip on the village, an investigator said Wednesday.

"Pinball machines are always a definite sign that the crime syndicate has strong influence, if not domination, of a community," the investigator said. "This is so because pinball machines are a source of high income for the outfit. Pinball machines are big money.

Lyons police conducted an inspection Wednesday morning to determine if bar and restaurant owners had complied with the 9:30 a.m. deadline for removal of pinball machines set by Village President William G. Smith after the disclosure of their presence by The Trib.

The police, accompanied by a Trib reporter and photographer, found the machines had been removed in all Lyons taverns and restaurants, including the Blue Lantern bar, Ogden avenue and Powell street, the 47th Street Bar and Grill, 47th street and Lawndale avenue, and Jeanne's bar, 7320 W. 39th.

There is a question as to which of two hoodlum firms distributed the machines found in Lyons. State and federal law enforcement agencies say there are two distributorships that have monopolized the pinball machine racket in the western suburbs.

The firms are the M & N Novelty co., 1031 N. 78th, Elmwood Park, and the Cicero Amusement Devices co., 4807 W. 23d, Cicero.

M & N Novelty is owned by Nicholas Visco, a former associate of Chicago Cosa Nostra boss Sam Giancana. Cicero Amusement Devices is owned by Anthony Battaglia, brother of Sam Battaglia. Anthony came under scrutiny by the FBI when he was seen at a Melrose Park night club, Strangers in the Night, with Joseph Ama-bile, who was sentenced to 15 years in prison with Sam Battaglia on extortion charges.

The investigator who spoke to The Trib Wednesday said one of the two firms probably distributed the machines found in Lyons bars.

Both the M & N Novelty co. and Cicero Amusement Devices co. have the same, simple method of distributing machines.

A member of the company tells a tavern owner that a machine will be installed in his establishment. The owner is required to purchase the $250 federal stamp for the machine, for which he is reimbursed at a $25-a-week rate by the syndicate.

The company representative tells the tavern owner that he (the owner) will be repaid for all winnings made by customers of the machines, and that the remaining profit is to be split 50-50 with the distributor. The 50-50 split applies only to smaller machines. The mob takes the lion's share of profits. Collection dates and times are arranged and the owner is given a phone number to call should something go wrong with the machine.

Since all machines have a game-counting device, it is almost impossible for the proprietor to cheat, and those unwise enough to do so are usually disciplined in traditional syndicate style — with a beating. The same treatment is given to proprietors who refuse to allow a pinball machine to be installed.

Reportedly, Visco assumed control of M & N Novelty after his boss, Giancana, left the country. Visco had been a partner of Giancana in a Norwood restaurant and gambling center called the "Mist."

Visco's partners in M & N are Michael Sabbatino, whose home address is also the address of the company, and Louis Eboli, whose brother, Thomas, became acting head of the powerful New York Cosa Nostra "family" of Vito Genovese after Genovese's death in prison last year.

The immediate supervisors of the three — in the syndicate chain of command — are Guido De Chiaro and Sam Ariola, both well-known syndicate figures in the western suburbs.

M & N virtually monopolizes all pinball machines in Melrose Park, Stone Park, Northlake, and Franklin Park, and has interests in other western suburbs.

Investigators report the most profitable pinball machine operation for M & N is in Melrose Park, which contains at least 20 machines averaging a weekly take for the syndicate of $600 per machine.

The biggest Melrose Park profits are reaped from nine machines installed in the Harlo Grill, 2400 W. North; the Hasty Grill, 1801 W. North; and Don and Paul's Grill, 25th avenue and Lake street.

As recently as last year, the machines in the Harlo and Hasty grills, both owned by Russell Cross, were netting $5,500 per week for M & N.

Wednesday, a Trib reporter played the multiple-odds machines in both restaurants and observed a lively traffic of customers pumping dimes into the devices. The busiest machines were those in the back room of the Harlo grill.

Any time a customer wins, Cross or a cook pays him off and signs a chit that is placed in the cash register. Then, at 11 a.m. on Wednesday and Friday mornings, Visco or another collector counts the profits at Rocky's drive-in, 2204 W. North, and splits the take with Cross.

After reporting the profits to De Chiaro and Ariola, the M & N collector retains a percentage for the company.

De Chiaro and Ariola then funnel a percentage of the net to Paul Ricca, who, along with Anthony Accardo shares chairmanship of the Chicago council, controlling body of the crime syndicate in this area.

The phone number proprietors are to call in case something goes wrong with an M & N machine is FI 3-0200, according to law enforcement agents. The proprietor is instructed to ask for "agent one," the repairman who is known only as "Skins." In this way, the proprietor is kept in the dark as to the name of the firm that installed his machine.

The organization of the Cicero Amusement Devices co. is neither as sophisticated nor as profitable.

The company owns all pinball machines in Cicero and is probably the firm that owns most of the machines in the southwest suburban area.

Anthony Battaglia's partner in Cicero Amusement is Samuel C. Wolande, 4934 Randolph, Hillside. Wolande does all the collecting, altho he does not maintain as rigid a schedule as Visco's firm.

According to federal and state law enforcement officials, anyone who wishes to obtain a liquor license in Cicero is told by the town's deputy liquor commissioner that he must also agree to have one of Battaglia's machines installed.

"He isn't given any choice," an investigator told The Trib. "He doesn't get a liquor license if he doesn't agree to have a pinball machine installed. It's a package deal."

The split on the profits is arranged the same as M & N's — 50-50 on small machines, with a higher percentage to the mob on big machines. The machines, however, average a weekly gross profit of $250, compared to the $600 in Melrose Park. Nonetheless, one tavern owner told police his split on the profits of one pinball machine "paid my rent every month."

The telephone number given by the Cicero Amusement Device co. checks out to the Cypress inn, 2015 S. Cicero. The number is 656-6426. The Cypress is owned by Steve Lambesis, a close associate of Battaglia's.

Profits from the Cicero company are funneled to Cicero vice boss Joseph Aiuppa and loan shark racketeer Fiore Buccieri thru Joseph Corngold, a gambling partner of Aiuppa.

The pinball machines at the 47th Street Bar and Grill, Jeanne's bar, the Blue Lantern bar, the Harlo Grill, Hasty Grill, and Don and Paul's Grill are not registered with the Cook county clerk. State law requires the owner of a pinball machine to register his federal gaming stamp with the county clerk's office.

DETAILS:

During November, 1969, CG T-1 furnished the following information:

Source advised being very familiar with TONY BATTAGLIA, and particularly familiar with his deceased son. BATTAGLIA is in the background as operator of the Silver Spur, Cypress Lounge, and the Annetta Hotel and Lounge in Cicero, though he visits these establishments on a daily basis. The Annetta is [REDACTED]

b6

[REDACTED] but is not in the foreground with BATTAGLIA. The Silver Spur is [REDACTED] (last name unknown) (LNU), a [REDACTED] though the lease is in the name of [REDACTED]

[ ] of the Cypress Lounge. All three establishments were required to close at regular hours during the Cicero Police strike, because the Sheriff's Police couldn't be bought by the management. Most stay open around the clock, although their licenses require them to close at 4:00 am. Source believes that considerable pressure was exerted on members of the Cicero Police Department to resolve the strike because of this.

BATTAGLIA regularly goes to the Silver Spur at about 10:30 on Tuesday nights, reason unknown. His [ ] is a [ ] (LNU), age [ ] who resides in [ ] and is [ ] Silver Spur. BATTAGLIA also delights in picking up young women from the Silver Spur, but source believes him to be smart enough not to take out under-age girls. His favorite weekend hangout in the Rush Street area is Pigalles, and he is a Friday night regular there.

b6
b7C

Another regular meeting spot for BATTAGLIA and other Cicero hoods is a tavern in Maywood or Melrose Park, reached by taking the Eisenhower Expressway west to Mannheim, north to just before the railroad tracks, located on the right side of the road. The tavern, name unknown, is a nice spot, has a gun collection on the walls inside, and is the scene of once a month hood meetings.

Source advised that the identity of [ ] was unknown.

b6
b7C

On October 20, 1969, [ ] Illinois Liquor Control Commission, 188 West Randolph, Chicago, made available liquor license applications for the following locations:

b6
b7C

Silver Spur
Cypress Lounge
Annetta Restaurant, Inc.

These locations are allegedly owned by subject, however, licensed and operated by front men.

[ ] advised on checking the Silver Spur recently he found subject there and checking the cash register receipts and otherwise acting in a managerial capacity.

At these times, The Silver Spur simply closes its doors from 6:00 until 7:00 and all personnel remain inside. # Tower Ticker

● FUN CITY: If Cicero President John Karner and his police chief, Joe Barloga, ever suggest it's safe to play among the mob controled strip tease parlors and bustout joints of their suburb, forget it. Instead, witness here what happened recently in one of those dives to three of their own policemen:

It was shortly after 3 o'clock in the morning when three off-duty Cicero police officers and a civilian sidekick ventured thru the front door of the Silver Spur, a joint where imprisoned crime syndicate chief Sam [Teetz] Battaglia's baby brother, Tony, holds forth at the cash register.

No sooner had this foursome crossed the darkened portal than manager Mickey Campanaro lifted his 230 pounds to his full six feet one and roared, "We don't want no coppers in here!"

And with that, the policemen claim Campanaro and two bouncers began lumping the quartet with baseball bats, broken beer bottles and chairs until one officer lay unconscious on the barroom floor. Then all four were dumped onto the sidewalk with two eventually being hauled off to a hospital.

Now ordinarily, one would expect no less to happen in that network of sleazy dumps operated under the auspices of Joey [The Doves] Aluppa. Often, it's a nightly occurrence.

But listen further to how Chief Barloga's department handled the complaints of three brother officers:

First, with the mystical whisk of a typewriter, the "accident" scene was removed to the sidewalk, making less vulnerable to state liquor commission action that sacred document that is the Silver Spur's license. At least, that's how the official report reads.

Then, Campanaro and his two muscle-bound pals were duly charged with reckless conduct, the equivalent of packing heavyweight champ Joe Frazier with a strip teaser's atrophy. And since then, the case has been dragging on in court without trial.

Meanwhile, Chief Barloga has said his men should know better than to frequent those joints on Cicero Avenue. They're strictly for out of town slobs. And Tony Battaglia has been walking around town, boasting every little thing is gonna be all right.

In fact, he doesn't even look worried when he sits down, some afternoons to play cards in a Laramie Avenue hotel with Teddy Zaremba, the ex-justice of the peace who is now Cicero town supervisor. Maybe he knows something those three jittered cops don't know.

Informant advised that BATTAGLIA, who works for JOSEPH AIUPPA, is owner of Annetta Hotel, 25th and Laramie, and The Silver Spur Lounge, Cicero Avenue, both in Cicero, Illinois. Both of these places operate all night, though laws require them to close. Informant advised that recently both have allegedly obtained licenses which allow them to stay open until 6:00 a.m. and business is booming between 4:00 and 6:00 a.m. after closing of Chicago bars. On most occasions these places, as well as everywhere else in Cicero, stay open the entire night and do not observe the closing laws, except when the Cook County Sheriff's officers are in town. At these times, The Silver Spur simply closes its doors from 6:00 until 7:00 and all personnel remain inside. Even when unannounced raids are to be made by the Sheriff's Office, [ ] BATTAGLIA,

Cicero Police Arrest Three In Shooting

Three men arrested Friday by Cicero police following a scuffle in which a fourth man was shot are awaiting trial in Oak Park Felony court January 22.

According to Cicero Capt. Roland Brani, detective bureau chief, Michael Pavalon, 24, of 3716 S. Wood, Chicago, was shot in the right thigh while sustaining a beating from the other three men in front of 2109 Cicero Ave.

Pavalon signed a complaint of aggravated battery against Anthony P. Bunda, 24, of 566 Arlene dr., Woodstock, and battery complaints against Joseph A. Richardson, 31, of 5704 W. 35th st., and Nelson Morgan, 32, of 3133 S. Kedvale, Chicago.

DETECTIVE Albert Klucina signed complaints of unlawful use of a weapon, failure to have a gun owner's registration card and possession of marijuana against Bunda.

According to Lt. Donald Malicki, Bunda was released on $10,000 bond and Richardson and Morgan were released on $1,000 bond each.

Pavalon was treated at Loretto Hospital, Chicago, and released. The three suspects all denied ownership of the gun and shooting Pavalon with it, Brani said, but the bullet taken from Pavalon's leg and the one left in the gun matched two .38 caliber bullets, for the two-shot Derringer, found in Bunda's car.

A search of Bunda's car also led to the discovery of a marijuana cigarette.

KLUCINA had been sent to the area of the incident to check two suspicious cars parked in a lot at 2135 Cicero ave., when he heard the fight.

Brani said two squad cars on routine patrol were also in the area, manned by Officers John Marone, Ronald Liss and Robert Pollack.

When the four men went to break up the fight they heard a shot fired but none saw who had the gun. Klucina, however, saw Bunda pick up the gun, which had been dropped, and put it into his pocket where it was found when Bunda was searched.
